ATTENTION, HOG RAISERS!

The following is the address of Dr. V. W. Knowles, hog cholera expert of the United States Department of Agriculture, delivered at the Winter Short Course of the Oklahoma A. & M. College, on January 6th, 1916.

Dr. Knowles is an authority on hog cholera and the means of its eradication, and the hog raisers of Beaver county will find it greatly to their interest to carefully consider his recommendations. I have secured this address expressly for publication in the county papers to the end that the farmers of Beaver county may be fully informed and in position to combat this plague in the most approved and efficient manner. J. F. Newson, County Agent.

Gentlemen: It is the policy of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry to control and eradicate, so far as possible, hog cholera in the United States through the employment of sanitary measures, recommending the serum protective treatment for the protection of herds diseased or actually exposed.

During the past six months we have been passing through a very active period in our fight against this disease. The epidemic has been so widespread and the need of farmers for immediate relief so great that most of our time has been necessarily spent in encouraging and directing the proper use of the serum preventive treatment and encouraging the employment of sanitary measures to prevent the spread of the disease. In our campaign in various parts of the state stress has been laid upon the importance of cleanliness and sanitation and I think a fairly good foundation has been laid for a campaign of cleaning and disinfecting during the spring and summer months. Through the thorough cleaning and disinfection of infected premises alone may farmers expect to prevent an epidemic of cholera in the fall of 1916 as extensive as was that of 1915.

Cholera still exists in some sections of the state and there will be need for the use of serum to protect herds against immediate danger for some time. I anticipate that the farm demonstrator will be asked frequently for council and advice in these emergencies. In this connection it would be well in advising the farmer to urge that care be exercised in estimating the weight of individuals to be treated and that the temperature of each be taken that the condition of the animal may be known and a sufficient dose of serum be administered.

The average stockman and farmer does not realize the importance of thoroughly disinfecting his premises following an outbreak of contagious disease. There is a lack of knowledge on his part concerning practical and economical methods of proceeding with work of disinfection. The reappearance of disease on premises from which it was believed infection had been eradicated may frequently be traced to imperfect work in connection with cleaning and disinfection. In this field there is opportunity to offer the farmer substantial and lasting assistance.

To those unaccustomed to the work disinfection may seem a complicated process. Any approved method, however, is comparatively simple when carried out carefully, although, like many other procedures, it is one in which attention to details is important.

The causative agents of this disease are very small and may remain for an indefinite period in dust, cracks and crevices of buildings, etc., so that efforts looking to the eradication of infection from contaminated premises must be thorough in order to be effective.

Sunlight is nature's great disinfectant and may be depended upon to disinfect pastures and lots that are fully exposed to its rays. For practical purposes, however, we are depending upon certain drugs which have the power to destroy the organisms of disease. These drugs destroy bacterial life with the same certainty that poisonous drugs destroy animal life. They have only to be brought into contact with the bacteria in order to destroy them.

In practical work of disinfection there are three essentials:

1. A preparation of the buildings and premises that will facilitate the most thorough contact with bacteria.
2. A disinfectant which upon contact may be depended upon to destroy such organisms.
3. A method of applying the disinfectants that will assure the most thorough contact with the bacteria.

After cholera has abated on a farm the entire premises should be disinfected. It is a mistake to attempt to do this a part at a time, or by piecemeal. The entire premises should be disinfected in as short a time as possible after work of disinfection has begun. It is advisable to begin with the outlying infected premises and gradually work in to the center of infection. In the pasture lots all leaves and other litter in which sick hogs have bedded, old fence boards, rails, etc., should be gathered and burned. Any article under which infection might be harbored should be removed. Feed and water troughs, if old, should be burned, if of new material they should be thoroughly scrubbed in a disinfectant solution. All cobs, husks, bedding and other litter that will burn should be gathered and burned. Litter that will not burn may be hauled to the field and plowed under. Mud wallow holes should be filled in or fenced so that hogs cannot get to them. Hogs should never be allowed to stray stacks. It is best to change feed lots and plow the old one. Hogs should be dipped in a good disinfectant solution before being taken to a new lot or field. All manure in barns and hog houses should be taken to the field and plowed under. Board floors, old, porous wood in walls and partitions and any loose objects that might harbor the infection should be removed and burned.

When the work of cleaning is complete a three per cent solution of Compound Cresol Solution should be applied with a good spray pump to all fences, interiors and floors of buildings, shaded areas, and such other places as may not be fully exposed to the sun's rays.

Finally all wagons, manure spreaders, tools and instruments should be carefully cleaned and disinfected. The feet and legs of horses, cattle, and other domestic animals may be carriers of the infection and should be sprayed. Paths to the house, the well, corn crib, hay stack, etc., should be sprayed and sprinkled with lime. Lastly, the shoes of those doing the work of disinfection should be cleaned and disinfected and the clothing worn should be boiled before being worn about the premises again.

FOR RHEUMATISM

As soon as an attack of Rheumatism begins apply Sloan's Liniment. Don't waste time and suffer unnecessary agony. A few drops of Sloan's Liniment on the affected parts is all you need. The pain goes at once.

A grateful sufferer writes:—"I was suffering for three weeks with Chronic Rheumatism and Stiff Neck, although I tried many medicines, they failed, and I was under the care of a doctor. Fortunately I heard of Sloan's Liniment and after using it three or four days am up and well. I am employed at the biggest department store in S. F. where they employ from six to eight hundred hands and they surely will hear all about Sloan's Liniment.—H. B. Smith, San Francisco, Calif.—Jan. 1915. At all Druggists.

HOW TO CURE COLDS.

Avoid exposure and drafts. Eat right. Take Dr. King's New Discovery. It is prepared from Pine Tar, healing balsams and mild laxatives. Dr. King's New Discovery kills and expels the cold germs, soothes the irritated throat and allays inflammation. It heals the mucous membrane. Search as you will, you cannot find a better cough and cold remedy. Its use over 45 years is a guarantee of satisfaction.

Autoists have been experiencing no little trouble during the present cold snap with frozen up ears and cranking difficulties. Unfortunately a few car owners forgot to drain their ears and as a result have cracked radiators and cylinders to contend with. Others who have found cranking by the usual method of no avail, have been starting their ears by hitching on behind a team and taking a spin. After all, we can't get along without the faithful old horse for when the ears get stuck or too cold to manage the horse always comes to the rescue.

TO CURE CHILDREN'S COLDS

Keep child dry, clothe comfortably, avoid exposure and give Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It is pleasant, soothing, antiseptic, raises phlegm and reduces inflammation. The first dose gives relief, continued treatment with proper care will avoid serious illness or a long cold. Don't delay treatment. Don't let your child suffer. Get a bottle to-day. Insist on Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. 25c. at Druggists.

LOOK AT YOURSELF

Is Suffering Writing Lines In your Face?

Many a handsome woman looks in the glass and sees the premature lines of the old hag already beginning to show in her face. Secret suffering and sickness is writing those lines every day plainer and plainer.

They don't know what to do. Their backs ache, their bodies ache; poor appetite, bad digestion, sallow skins, drooping shoulders, always tired. Probably suffering from organic or functional trouble peculiar to women. Doctors don't seem to help them. It's pitiful. But there is a way out.

A distinguished Southern physician gave a life time of constant study to perfecting a remedy for suffering women and when he had perfected it he rightly called it Stella Vitae, the star of life.

All dealers sell it and so certain are they that they guarantee to give your money back if Stella Vitae doesn't benefit you. If you want to stop that nagging pain, and your digestion, clear up your complexion and regain your physical attractions try a bottle of Stella Vitae. Try it today. Don't hesitate, for it costs you nothing if it fails to benefit you. Your dealer sells it in $1 bottles. Thacher Medicine Co., at Chattanooga, Tenn.
